

Guest Post — Research Support is an Enterprise Activity

by Rebecca Bryant, OCLC
7 October 2020

A blog post from a research information manager articulating a framework for understanding why it's so hard to get anything done in the complex system of a modern research university.

Top takeaways:

- Helpful insight into academic organisational culture for new starters in research administration
- Provides chuckles of recognition for veterans of research support
- Includes recommendations for further reading

Kirstyn Radford, University of Hull